

Live to do Good.

BY J. STILLMAN.

Live to do good—this world should be
But one united family,
One holy brotherhood;
Where each should for his neighbor feel,
Helping along the general weal,
And universal good.

But selfish aims too oft intrude,
And thoughtless words, or actions rude, Engender enmity;
And hence the scenes of foolish strife, Marring the happiness of life,
Which every day we see.

'Tis sad to find the evil seed So thickly sown, and noxious weed Its hateful presence spread;
And witness passion's harsh control Crush the affections of the soul Beneath the iron tread.

Live to do good—an idle wall Is useless—action must prevail,
A living pattern teach;
Invoke example's potent aid,
And that to which you would persuade,
Practice as well as preach.

Live to do good—if festering sores, Humanity with tears deplores, Strive all you can to heal;
Direct the young, and comfort age, Boldly for right and truth engage,
And for the suffering feel.

Live to do good, and kindness show
To neighbor, stranger, friend and foe, Nor think the task is hard;
Heaven will bestow its righteous meed,
And every earth-forgotten deed Shall bring a rich reward.

Common Sense.

She came among the glittering crowd—
A maiden fair without pretence,
And when asked her humble name
She whispered mildly Common Sense.

Her modest garb drew every eye,
Her ample cloak, her shoes of leather—
And when she sneered, she simply said,
"I dress according to the weather."

They argued long and reasoned loud
In dubious Hindu phrase mysterious, While she, poor girl, could not divine Why girls so young should be so serious.

They knew the length of Plato's beard
And how the scholars wrote in Sanscrit—She studied authors not so deep,
And took the Bible for her pattern.

And so she said "Excuse me friends,
I find all have their proper places,
And Common Sense should stay at home With cheerful hearts and smiling faces."

"How do you do, Mrs. Tome; have you heard that story about Mrs. Ludy?"
"Why, no really, Mrs. Gab, what is it?"—do tell."

"Oh, I promised not to tell for the world! No, I must never tell it. I'm afraid it'll get out."

"Why, I'll never tell it as long as I live, just as true as the world—what is it?"—come—tell."

"Now you won't say anything about it, will you?"

"No, I will never open my head about it, sacredly. Hope to die this minute."

"Well, if you believe me, Mrs. Fun-day told me, last night, that Mrs. Trot told her that her sister's husband was told, by a person who saw it, that Mrs.
Trouble's oldest daughter told Mrs.
Nicolas, that she heard Mrs. Putein tell Naomi Blue, that a milliner told her that BUSTLES were out of fashion."

FIGHT, VERY.—Here is the tallest fish story yet out. Sailors will please hide their "diminished heads."

"The editor of the Manchester Democrat tells of a man who had a large nose, and who, in crossing a corner of Lake Winnepesaukee to reach the woods where he was chopping, cut a hole through the ice for the purpose of quenching his thirst. A large trout, mistaking for some more tempting prize the nose of the chopper, which was protruding below the fragments of ice which covered the surface, nuzzled it with all his might. The man upon the ice, alarmed by this unexpected assault, made a hasty retreat, and not only took his nose out of the water, but with it a good sized trout weighing some nine pounds."

The New York Sunday Dispatch gives a new and quite different version of the meeting of Generals Taylor and Scott, at Washington. It says:

General Scott fell upon General Taylor's neck and wept.

"Scott!" murmured Taylor.

"Taylor!" faltered Scott.

"Scott," said Taylor, making a strong effort to recover his composure —"Scott," he repeated, but he broke down.

"Well, Taylor, what is it?" demanded Scott, in a firmer tone, and trying to master his emotion.

"Scott," resumed Taylor, with a visibly painful effort—"Scott, do you cheat?"

We can quote no more; the remainder is too trying to the sympathies.

"If there is any body under the canister of heaven that I hold in exacerbation," said Mrs. Partington, "it is a talebearer and slanderer, going about like a vile boaster, circulating his calomel about honest folks—I always know one of his phylomahogany." It seems as if Belzabub had stamped him with his private signal, and every thing he looks at appears to turn yellow.

And having uttered this somewhat elaborate speech, she was seized by a fit of coughing, and called for some demulcet drops.

HASTING'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF NAPHTHA.

NOT only a purgative but a warranted cure for consumption and all diseases of the lungs. This medicine has decided the dispute about the curability of consumption, and satisfied the medical faculty and all who have used it, that consumption and all affections of the lungs can not only be cured, but they are as easily and simply cured, as almost any of the diseases which the human frame is liable to.

The operation of a single bottle, which costs $1, is sufficient to satisfy any patient—if not altogether too far gone with the disease—of this fact; and even a single dose gives evidence of its extraordinary influence in restoring and eradicating the malady by the immediate relief which it affords. This is no quack or secret remedy.

Dr. Hastings, its discoverer, is one of the most eminent physicians of the age, and has made a full disclosure of its history, and all its component parts to the world, not wishing to incur the responsibility of confining to himself, for the sake of profit, a secret which was calculated to do such universal good. And such has been the wonderful result of its operations, that the London Lancet, Medical Times, and the most eminent physicians of both hemispheres, are anxiously calling upon sufferers to have immediate recourse to it, and proclaiming that of all known medicines, it alone has now established its efficacy by unde-niable proofs of curing consumption and all other diseases of the lungs.

The most extraordinary Medicine in the World.
This Extract is put up in quart bottles; it is six times cheaper, pleasanter, and warranted superior to any sold. It cures without vomiting, purging, sickening, or debilitating the Patient.

The great beauty and superiority of this Sarsaparilla over all other medicine is, that while it eradicates disease, it invigorates the body. It is one of the very best.

SPRING AND SUMMER MEDICINES Ever known; it not only purifies the whole system, and strengthens the person, but it creates new, pure and rich blood; a power possessed by no other medicine. And in this lies the grand secret of its wonderful success.
It has performed within the last five years, more than 100,000 cures of severe cases of disease; at least 15,000 were considered incurable. It has saved the lives of more than 5,000 children during the past season.
